Masquerade Martini Mystery: Sip & Unmask

What Happens:

Everyone wears a pretty mask (like at a fancy dress-up ball).

You serve clear cocktails (lemonade, soda, or grown-up drinks).

→ When guests add a special syrup drop from a tiny bottle, the drink magically changes color!

- Blue → Purple
- Yellow → Pink
- Clear → Green

Each color means something fun:

- Purple = “You’re the dancer!”
- Pink = “You’re the singer!”
- Guests guess who’s who by the colors — laughing and chatting!

The Big “WOW” Dance Surprise:

After 30 minutes, say:
“Time to unmask… and DANCE!”
→ Lights go dark.
→ Fog rolls in (from a little machine).
→ Colored lasers shoot across the room.
→ Music starts — everyone takes off masks and dances in the glowing fog!

Super Easy Setup (Cheap & Fast!):

1. Masks: Buy 20 for $1 each at the dollar store (feathers, glitter — any kind!).
2. Color-Changing Syrup: Make at home!
   - Recipe: 1 cup water + 1 cup sugar + food coloring.
   - Add a pinch of butterfly pea powder (turns blue → purple with lemon).
   - Put in tiny squeeze bottles (like ketchup ones).
3. Base Drink: Clear soda, lemonade, or sparkling water in clear cups.

Fun “Poison” Surprise (Totally Safe!):

One special drink has Pop Rocks candy on the rim.
When someone sips — CRACKLE CRACKLE!

You shout: “You’ve been poisoned… with FUN!”

→ Everyone raises their glass for a group toast:
“To friends, magic, and color!”
